

Chapter 7: An Unwanted Destiny

Sometimes we're destined to be who we don't want to be, but that shouldn't stop us from eventually following our dreams.

Siromi and Triloni went through the tall grass, they had finally gotten to Ferloni, but they still had a ways to go before coming to the hidden entrance.

They hadn't met much trouble, except for the rocky seas and the fact that Triloni got very seasick when riding on a boat. Siromi, it took a few minutes, but then, after that he felt right at home staring at the blue waves and riding the ship they sailed to Ferloni. Already, the adventurous part of Siromi was coming back, and he was now eagerly following the map the village leader had given him.

A few hours later.

"Shining Gems." Siromi said. A door opened, and the Gemaphet was writing a letter, which was unusual, because she had telepathy.

"Who are you? I don't have time for anyone to ask me whether i can bring their gems back," she said not looking up.

"Gems back? Huh?" said Triloni. The gemaphet looked up, and gasped.

"You must prepare yourselves for war. Your team is the only one that can defeat Oothspach."

Now it was Siromi's turn to be confused. "We came to see what we were destined to be, i did some crazy thing with my magic when fighting off an earth Arking, because it was attacking my sister."

"You are destined to be a part of the team to defeat the accursed one, Oothspach." Siromi's adventurous side suddenly vanished, and he put his hands in his hair.

"Whoa, I was not warned of being destined to save the world! I'm not capable of that!"

"But you must! Without you, the world is pretty much doomed." the Gemaphet said. Siromi looked at the Gemaphet and Triloni, and practically fainted on the spot.

"Young ones these days...." The Gemaphet sighed.

"Don't worry, I got some cold water in my canteen right here." Triloni said, and dumped the entire canteen of cold water on Siromi's face.

Siromi jumped up. "Why'd you do that?"

"Because you fainted on the spot when the Gemaphet said we were destined to save the world."

"Oh." Siromi couldn't say anything else; thinking about the world depending on him and a few other people made him sick.

"You must go swiftly, three who are a part of your team left a half hour ago, you must catch up, and tell them you are a part of the team, they will test your mettle, to see if you're really destined to be, and you are, pass their test, and collect the magic necklaces, combined, they have the power to destroy the accursed one forever."

"Let's go!" Triloni said.

"They are going to Stenros to find the first magic necklace." the Gemaphet said.

"Ok, thanks." Siromi said.

"May the odds be in your favor, young elves, you're going to need it."
